Preliminary program

WEDNESDAY 28 OCTOBER, 2020

TIME	SESSION
10.00AM – 11.30AM SESSION 1	The Post-Pandemic Workplace: Searching for the “Next Normal” Wayne Cascio FAHRILife, Distinguished Professor, University of Colorado, and, Robert H. Reynolds Chair in Global Leadership  The global pandemic will have lasting effects on work and how, when and where people perform it. This presentation will discuss the over-arching topics of future workforce planning, the rise of contact-free economies, managing remote teams, facilitating international work and redefining organisational performance.
11.30AM – 12.00AM	EXHIBITION AND NETWORKING
12.00PM – 1.15PM SESSION 2	Building and maintaining a resilient team Michelle McQuaid, Trainer, Author and Thought Leader, The Wellbeing Lab  Studies suggest that the most resilient teams are able to support each other’s wellbeing, create psychologically-safe workspaces together and turn their struggles into opportunities for learning and growth. This session will explore how you can build and maintain resilient teams.
1.15PM – 1.45PM	EXHIBITION AND NETWORKING
1.45PM – 3.00PM SESSION 3	Optimising employee performance in a digital world Rob Scott CAHRI, Principal &amp; Director: HR Strategy &amp; Innovation, Deloitte  The last decade has been underpinned by radical technological progress. But we soon realised that ‘Digital Transformation’ was more than just about technology – in fact, we needed to realign Purpose, Potential and Perspective to ensure optimal performance. This session will explore practical tips to support employee performance in a digital world.
3.00PM – 3.30PM	EXHIBITION AND NETWORKING
3.30PM – 4.45PM SESSION 4	Designing Work to Unlock a Responsive Culture Aaron McEwan FAHRI, VP, Research &amp; Advisory, Gartner  The COVID-19 pandemic highlighted and exposed those organisations unable to quickly adapt to changing external environments. Investing in designing work – not just managing talent – enables workforce responsiveness at scale across an organisation. This session will demonstrate how progressive organisations are making changes to become more agile.
